Hotel: 4★ Vienna International Hotel Shangrao or similar

Begin your day with a visit to Mount GeXian , accessible by round-trip cable car. Named after the Taoist immortal Ge Xuan, who is believed to have cultivated here during the Eastern Han Dynasty, the mountain is renowned for its rich natural and cultural landscapes, including strange peaks, mystical rock formations, and seas of clouds. Known as "China's No. 1 Sacred Mountain of Lingbao Taoism," it is a prominent religious site where both Taoist and Buddhist influences coexist.

Explore the Great Gexian Hall (also known as Gexian Ancestral Temple or Yuxu Temple), located at the summit of Xianglu Peak — the highest point of Gexian Mountain. Inside, you'll find altars featuring both standing and seated statues of Ge Xuan, paying tribute to his spiritual legacy.

Continue to 【Wang Xian Gu】, located in Shangrao, Jiangxi — a place often described as a fairyland on Earth. Perched on dramatic cliffs with flowing streams and waterfalls cascading down the opposite mountainside like silver ribbons, the valley transforms into a magical wonderland at night with soft ambient lighting. The serene mountain setting is filled with natural beauty — rushing creeks, pebble waterfalls, pine forests, and bamboo groves.

Wangxiangu also features traditional Jiangxi-style architecture such as rammed earth walls, cobblestone paths, yellow walls with dark-tiled roofs, and charming rustic village homes. Highlights include Qingyun Bridge, Three-Tier Waterfall, and Lanyue Bridge.

At Baiwei Street (“Street of a Hundred Flavors”) inside the valley, sample over a hundred kinds of authentic Jiangxi local snacks — such as taro dumplings, grilled cold noodles, skewered meats, meat buns, Hu-style pancakes, Wangxian steamed buns, water chestnut cakes, fried dough with glutinous rice, lantern-shaped cakes, scallion pancakes, and more.

The village is built on steep terrain where “not even three feet of flat land” can be found, creating a distinctive, multi-leveled layout.

Huangling is also the origin of the traditional “Autumn Drying” (Shaiqiu) culture, where locals display harvested crops on rooftops and bamboo trays. The scenic “drying” displays change with the seasons, offering vibrant and picturesque views year-round.
